

Sky Mail

July 10th.

I greet Thelma & all.

I'm sorry I'm so late in writing you, I've been so busy the last week I haven't written any one. We have been bringing on stores and ammunition and getting ready to leave. I received the watch and in good shape. It's a little hard to get used to it back on my arm again.

There is really something wrong with this mail. I haven't heard from no one for some time now. I have left Mare Island and I'm at Hunters Point. I expect to leave the States the twentieth unless something is wrong. That's what we are going to find out today. We are on trial run. We were doing thirty two knots this morning and this thing rattled
